Feller To Seek 17th Victory Tonight as Tribe Opens Red Sox Series

First Team to Get Hot Will Take Pennant; Joe Cronin Predicts.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND July 30 — The first American league club that develops a hot streak and piles up a string of victories will end the dog-fight for leadership and take the pennant says Manager Joe Cronin of the Boston Red Sox

And the Cleveland Indians opening a three-game series tonight, hoped to start such a victory string against Cronin's Cronies

Bob Feller declared in shape after the extraction yesterday of a tooth cracked by a sandlotter's thrown ball seeks his 17th victory in tonight's game He'll also try to go the full route for the 20th time this season and if he lasts six frames he will have pitched 200 innings

Will Face Bagby

Young Jim Bagby who gave Feller some trouble before dropping a game at Boston during the Tribe's last eastern trip will oppose the speedballer

Cronin beset with pitching woe and tired after a series in St Louis extreme heat prefaced his comments on the pennant race with the question

Have the Indians started to build temporary bleachers for the World Series?

He liked the Indians chances as well as those of any first division club

You can't concede the flag to the Tigers nor can you count the Yankees out of the fight said the Boston pilot The Indians lack power at the plate the Red Sox need pitching strength the Yankees have pitching and power but don't get both on the same day while the Tigers are beginning to feel the wear and tear of battle

Gain on Tigers

Idle yesterday Cleveland came within one game of first place Detroit as the Tigers dropped a decision to the Philadelphia Athletics

Baseball's still is a bruising battle in Brooklyn and the Dodgers have only three clubs to go to accumulate a perfect record of at least one fist fight with every team in the National league

The latest flare up involved catcher Babe Phelps of the dauntless Dodgers and shortstop Arky Vaughn of the once phlegmatic Pirates It came in the final breathless moments of one of the wackiest ball games seasoned spectators at Ebbets Field have ever seen

In the ninth the Pirates set off a dynamite display under Curt Davis scoring six runs before Tot Pressnell could stop them Then when the Dodgers came to bat Phelps was thrown out at first and Vaughan hustled over to the bag apparently to ask Elbie Fletcher Pirate first baseman if Phelps had tried to spike him Whatever the answer Vaughan and Phelps waded into each other and were hard at it before teammates could intervene

Thus the Pirates lined up behind the St Louis Cardinals Chicago Cubs and Cincinnati Reds as fistic foes of the Dodgers this season

The 7 6 victory enabled the Dodgers to cut another notch off Cincinnati's apparently ample lead as the Reds dropped a 4 3 decision to the New York Giants

Bob Bowman pitched seven hit ball as the St Louis Cards whipped the Boston Bees 8 3 and climbed back to fifth place

Another seven hit pitching performance was turned in by Claude Passeau of the Chicago Cubs in beating the Phillies 7 3 In the only game in the American league the Philadelphia Athletics again exercised their jinx over the pace-setting Detroit Tigers getting a 9 7 verdict that shaved Detroit's lead over Cleveland to one game

ALAMEDA Calif — A ball team in this town has won 96 straight games and is confidently forging ahead toward the 100 mark It's a girls team though softball of course

They claim national and international championships in their line Without a commercial sponsor they have a valuable assistant in County Supervisor Harry Bartell (father of Dick Bartell of the Detroit Tigers) who scurries around raising money for them

Barring an upset they will be in Detroit when the international softball tournament opens Sept 7 to seek their third straight title

The Alamedas don't go in for sex appeal with shorts Their uniforms are cut like those of professionals

Nice girls they have a rule that any one who swears in a game must hold out her left arm and let each teammate take a slap at it.

Legion's Champs Leave for State Meet Tomorrow

Lutherans, United Brethren And Greenwood Teams Win

Lutheran United Brethren and Greenwood teams were winners in last night's Sunday School No 2 league games

Lutherans sent three runs across the plate in the final frame at Garfield Park to nose out First Reformed 4 3 The winners had earned a one run advantage in the first inning and held this margin until the bottom of the sixth when First Reformed chalked up three markers Lutherans then scored the decisive runs in the seventh Fletcher was the winning pitcher as he limited the losers to five hits while his teammates were picking Crabtree for seven safeties Both teams displayed fine defensive play as not an error was committed during the game

United Brethren had little trouble defeating Epworth 6-0 at President's Field as Weiss and Everly alternated on the mound for the winners and held the opposition to four base hits The U B's touched Huntsman and Thomas for eight bingles

Greenwood scored in every inning but one to trounce Wesley, 18-4 at the Shovel grounds The winners socked 18 hits including a homer by Cook Lattimore slapped out a homer for one of Wesley's five blows off Walters Davis sparkled defensively at first base for Greenwood Score by innings and batteries follow

Buck Loses Bout to Trout

Weaver Defeated in Fast Session at Shovel; Hall Takes Kasaboski in Semi-Final.

Ringwise Buck Weaver Terre Haute's flying Hoosier and long a popular favorite among mat-goers in this section met his equal last night when he bowed to the cagey Californian Dick Trout in the featured match of last night's outdoor wrestling show at the Uncapher avenue arena

Clean and fast moving was the match which went three falls before Trout emerged victorious The West Coast grappler pulled the first round from the fire after he faced almost certain defeat Clamped in Weaver's keylock and being rolled to his doom Trout stopped the roll halfway to completion and held Buck's shoulders to the canvas for the necessary three seconds

Bout Moves Fast

Trout's victory came at the nine minute mark and the next round which went to Weaver under strongly similar circumstances was only 60 seconds longer Weaver twisted out of a headlock and retaliated with a chin lock that gave him the chance to pin his foe and even the score In the 12-minute final round Weaver appeared to be on his way to a win having jolted Trout about the circle with a shoulder dive and body bounces off the ropes The Westerner however managed to sidestep one of Weaver's charges and catch him in a position to hoist him into the air for a devastating spin The spin was Trout's winning barrage and as he wound and unwound Weaver the latter was an easy target for a slam and press

Stacey Hall of Columbus defeated Alex Kasaboski of Toronto Can in the 45 minute semi final The mean mannered Kasaboski copped the first round in 12 minutes with an arm grip before twice falling prey to Hall's favorite figure four and hook scissors Stacey absorbed plenty of punishment and Referee Clete Kauffman was the target of considerable jeering for permitting Kasaboski to dish out the rough barrage Hall used the same grip to win straight falls after he had lost the first taking the second in four minutes and the third in three

Lefty Pacer of New York City and Jimmy Heffner of Sherman Tex tangled in the 20 minute preliminary with the Texan taming his rugged opponent after only 14 minutes had elapsed Heffner won with a shoulder press

YOUR HEALTH

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.

Dogdays

In 1904, a physician named Dexter wrote a book, now out of print, which recorded the results of his studies to show the relationship between the weather and human activities. He had charts showing the preponderance of suicides and murders, in certain kinds of weather. In the Bank of England it was found that during very foggy weather certain types of clerical work showed such a high percentage of errors that such work was stopped during these periods and the books locked up to avoid mistakes.

People certainly differ in their reactions to hot weather—there are calophiles and calophobes. Personally I am a calophobe—I hate hot weather and simply can not function or work then in spite of the fact that I spent forty summers of my life in about the hottest part of the United States. I do my work now in a cool summer climate and glory to get back to snow and zero weather in the winter. Many of my friends on the contrary say they feel best in temperatures over ninety and plan their vacations in the winter. They always seem to me to be expressing bravado; I don't see how they can even be cheerful, let alone work, in hot weather,—but that is my point of view.

This question of weather temperament has significance in dealing with your fellow man. Hitler is definitely cyclic as regards weather. In a chart of dates published in Time (June 24) it is noticeable that he was always inactive in February, June, July, October and November and December. This year he couldn't help himself in June and July: his events pushed him. March, August and September are his busy months for decisions. That isn't astrology — that's weather and psychology.

During the hot weather, the wonderful machinery of perspiration should be studied and admired. Annoying as it may be it is the thermostat of our bodies.

Perspiration is secreted from the sweat glands, minute coiled glands which lie in the deeper layers of the skin, each one surrounded by a network of blood vessels. The sweat comes from the blood, consists mostly of water and salt, but may contain many other substances. Perspiration, aided by the natural oil from the sebaceous glands keeps the skin pliable, soft and moist. Even in cool weather the body produces a quart of perspiration in twenty-four hours.

A New York beauty specialist has invented a lacquer to be sprayed on women's hair to make it glow in a hale effect after dark.

New City Directories Set Marion's Population at 34,000

Marion's new city directory a 564-page volume listing 21 228 names is now off the press and on its way to subscribers Distribution is expected to be complete in about 10 days, according to information received from the publishers the R L Polk & Co of Columbus

The directory compiled in February March and April, is at variance with the United States census workers who counted noses in Marion about the same time It estimates the city's population at 34 000 compared with the latest census figure of 30 785 The 1930 census gave Marion 31,084

Regardless of the population the Smith family still is the most numerous clan with 205 listings John Smith is no more prevalent than James Smith the book listing eight of each There are six each of Fred Frank George and William Smith

102 Jones Families

The Jones family does pretty well with 102 listings and the Browns have 84 The Black robot of 157 North Grand avenue reassumes the first person in the directory but the A A A (American Automobile Association) corrects the extreme top Last name in the book is that of Ralph P Zaode of 111 Latourette street

The 21 228 names listed covered Marion city and county Eighteen years was the minimum listing age as in the past

"Marion made a notable increase in the variety of its business during the past two years" the publishers reported "There are now 309 different kinds of enterprise here This is a gain of 24 groups over 1938

In a statistical review the publishers list 79 manufacturing establishments employing 6 000 workers and paying annual wages of $7 000 000 Products of the factories are valued at $35 432 946 annually Principal products were listed as excavating machinery farm machinery road machinery elevating machinery steel castings pressed steel products and flour

Bank Deposits

The city's three banks had total deposits on Jan 1 of $7 942 000 and total resources of $9 006 000 Bank clearings in 1939 were listed at $13 312 550

Living Costs

Marion has an exceptionally low cost of living according to the publishers There are no cities in the state of like size that have as low a comparable cost Food costs are low because of the surrounding agricultural territory Rentals both in the residential and commercial districts, are unusually low

The summary also reviews briefly the history of Marion and also pays considerable attention to the Harding memorial and home

Of the county's agriculture the summary lists 242 530 of the county's 261 070 acres as farm land Of the farm land 149 724 acres are in crops There are 2 055 farms in the county with an average size of 118 acres

In case you don't know Marion's exact position on the map is 83 degrees west by 40 degrees and 30 minutes north

The directory has several sections After the statistical summary in which it refers to Marion as City of Prestige the directory contains a list of city, county and federal officials

New Name Listing Plan

The alphabetical list of names follows A new system of listing is observed Where there are several listings under the same name the directory prints the last name only once and lists under it only the first names and initials of the persons

After the alphabetical list there is a list of householders and business places by streets This list also indicates whether the person has a telephone or owns the house

There also is a list of telephones in numerical order an advertising section a classified business directory and a county directory of names

The Marion directories will be distributed to the free reference libraries in other cities

Military Training Course Offered Business and Professional Men

Marion's business and professional men today were offered an opportunity to receive basic military training in a streamlined one month course at Fort Benjamin Harrison Ind

The offer was made by the U S army through E H Shade Marion major in the chemical warfare reserve and Marion county chairman for the citizens military training camps

The course will be offered from Aug 2 31 the same time that the second CMTC session of the summer is in progress Of this body called 140 men and there are still several vacancies Major Shade has been informed

Broad Age Span

The course is open to men between the ages of 5 and 55 who are interested in paying their way to learn the fundamentals of military training They will receive no pay nor commission but their attendance would be taken into consideration should they ever be called upon later to serve their country

The course is offered Major Shade said to satisfy a need expressed by business and professional men throughout the country for a better understanding of the American army and its problems

Men who enroll in the course must pay their own transportation to and from camp and provide cots for their meals in camp (about $18 for the month) and a fee of $25 50 Uniforms and equipment will be provided by the government without charge

Interested persons should contact Major Shade immediately at his home at 881 Girard avenue telephone 8604

CMTC Places Open

In addition to the business and professional men a number of Marion county youths will be enrolled in the CMTC section of the camp from Aug 2 31 Seventeen are attending the first session now in progress Major Shade reported

Major Shade has also received orders from the army to report for duty in connection with the Second Army maneuvers at Camp Douglas Wis Aug 6 29 He has been assigned as assistant chemical warfare officer to the 37th Division Ohio National Guard The 38th Division Indiana will also take part

Marion's guardsmen are also scheduled to train at the Wisconsin maneuvers Major Shade said

The problem will be one of a division in attack although there will probably be some defensive maneuvers

The Return of Her Priceless Emeralds Revives Queen Olga's Independence

I REALIZED once more the tenacity of a mother's love as I heard Queen Olga's query concerning her son's safety for the king of Transoria who had been swept off his throne by revolution had been repeatedly dubbed the playboy of Europe and was a bounder and a blackguard who repeatedly had flouted his mother's warnings and her care for him I knew that her love for him was not the absorbing affection she gave to Olina but his probable fate in their revolution torn country was a matter of incessant anxiety to her

I am sorry" my father said quickly but we still have no news from your people although we are daily hoping that we shall hear something But—we have wonderful and astounding news for you nevertheless Your emeralds have been found

Queen Olga put her hand up to her throat patently without her volition and then almost instantly lowered it again Her face was composed her figure poised but I noticed that she swallowed twice before she spoke

Did I hear you aright?" she asked at last My emerald necklace—has been found?

My father's smile at her was indulgent and encouraging

Found and intact he said Would you like to see them?

She drew a quick spasmodic breath at my father's question but her voice was composed

Yes I should like very much to see my emeralds' she said

He walked slowly to his desk opened it and took out the box which I had seen open with its dazzling contents a few minutes before With it in his hands he walked over to Olga and held out the box to her

Your jewels were not in this box when they were stolen if I remember correctly he said

No they were not Olga answered and suddenly there was infinite mournfulness in her voice They were sewed in the clothing of my faithful maid Felice who was killed on that terrible night As you remember a search of her clothing afterward showed that the jewels had been ripped out of her hiding place We did not know then whether or not she had ripped them out herself and hidden them somewhere on the boat or whether one of the desperadoes had taken them from Felice either killing her in the robbery for she never would have yielded them while she was yet alive or ghoulishly robbing her clothing after she was dead

Leslie's Secret

That is something we shall not know until I have a chance to interrogate Jack Leslie, my father said The secret lies with him And now for the emeralds I am convinced that they bear your secret identification marks but I should like your confirmation of my belief

Queen Olga took the hint and opened the box which my father already had unhasped As she saw the dazzling coruscating jewels winking their eyes of fire at her her face lost its mask for an instant flamed with the odd ecstasy which comes to the faces of most women and some men when they see beautiful jewels especially when they own them And this woman had thought her emeralds forever lost!

She put out her hand and lifted the necklace from the box, letting it trail over her fingers.

New Independence

My lovely emeralds' she said and there was a wistfulness in her voice which I understood She had prized these jewels very highly and she was bidding them farewell For dearer to her than anything else was her independence and the restoration of these fabulously valuable emeralds with their diamond settings mean that when she should sell them she would be possessed of a comfortable fortune for herself and her daughter Olina making her financially independent of Philip Verltzen the lover of her youth whom she had finally consented to marry even though she were penniless

My father waited silently while the exiled queen filled her eyes and her touch with the restored jewels then he said quietly

I am sure that the identical necklace of which you were robbed but will you please look at the markings and make sure?

OHIO'S FINEST INDEPENDENT DRUG STORE OPENS TONITE

J G COOPER
President

C E HENNEY
Vice President

T WAYNE JENKINS
Secretary

You Are Invited....

After weeks of careful preparation, we are proud to announce the FORMAL OPENING of Ohio's finest independent drug store.

The same ownership and management, which for over thirty years has given Marion its most complete pharmacy, now embarks on a new era of super-service To accomplish this we have employed the facilities and services of the world famous Walgreen organization

Ever on the alert to improve and expand our service, we have moved into a room almost three times as large as the old one, doubled our stock, added several new departments, including complete fountain and luncheon service, and greatly enlarged our old departments, notably our famed prescription and truss services.

It is not the purpose of this advertisement to go into a lengthy description of each department. Rather, we would like you to visit us tonight, not to buy, but to SEE. No merchandise will be sold but refreshments will be served.

We want you to know that we're the same organization, the same ownership, the same employees who have made Henney & Cooper a household word in Marion these thirty years.

We want to take this opportunity to express our appreciation for your ever-increasing patronage which has made this expansion possible, and we want to renew our pledge to give Marion the last word in drug service so that we may merit your continued goodwill.

TUESDAY JULY 30 1940

An Emergency Measure

COMPULSORY military training is acceptable only as an emergency measure That point, already settled in public opinion should be made equally clear in congressional debate on the Burke-Wadsworth bill

Thereafter, it should be incorporated in the law itself In a statement on Youth Defense and the National Welfare," presented to the house military affairs committee by Owen D Young as chairman of American Youth commission the following declaration appears

No legislation enacted at this time should be effective for a period longer than five years A period limited to three years would have much to recommend it The circumstances of the present however compelling do not justify departing from our historic attitudes permanently or for a long period when our future military needs are so highly unpredictable '

It cannot be doubted that a conscription law would be renewed willingly as long as a defense emergency continued Nor can it be doubted that if the future of the United States seemed to depend on becoming a permanently conscripted nation legislation to that end would be enacted For the present however, the future being unpredictable, there is no excuse for raising the suspicion that the Burke-Wadsworth bill may be a Trojan horse to capture the independence of American manpower In a peoples government vigilance to protect the peoples liberty needs no apology In three years—five years at the most—the United States will know better than it knows now how long it wants to embrace conscription

Break It Gently

THERE used to be a time when Americans would have liked to sew on their diplomats breeches to keep slick foreigners from stealing them in international conferences In those days Americans didn t have much confidence in home grown diplomacy

Of course it s different now Foreigners still enter conferences armed with nothing but a chisel but American diplomats are flinty fellows on whose hardened hides a chisel makes scarcely any impression At a time like this nothing could be more reassuring

Down in Havana Latin American representatives are interested in the answer to one question though they ask it in a hundred ways What s it worth to the United States if we do what you want us to do? ' President Roosevelt himself affixed the dollar sign when he asked congress to increase the lending power of the Export-Import bank by $500 000 000 to facilitate trade with Latin America This stimulating request—the equivalent of 5 lbs of raw meat set before a Great Dane—was timed to hit the Havana newspapers about the same time the Pan American delegates hit them

A year ago when Mr Roosevelt wanted half a billion dollars to excite the Pan American spirit congress which then hadn t been scared out of its wits by the thought of Nazi missionaries indoctrinating Latin America turned thumbs down This year it s different of course perhaps not $500 000 000 different but changed considerably Great things may ensue from the pow-wow at Havana but the thing Uncle Sam s children really want to know is how much it s going to cost them

Germany Hesitates

EITHER Germany is supremely confident of being able to overwhelm Great Britain in a few days or Germany is reluctant to begin a thing which must be done quickly or not at all Otherwise, it wouldn t be turning to Balkan diplomacy at this time Perhaps as the British are saying with the grim humor which is supporting them in a crisis the Nazis haven t been able to forge documents proving that they must invade Britain to keep Britain from invading Germany

Opening of new diplomatic projects in the Balkans may be a precautionary measure Germany may be locking the back door before proceeding with its attack on Great Britain Nevertheless, it has not been forgotten so soon that Hitler s original plan called for action to the east, instead of the west France was to be held behind the Siegfried line while Germany consolidated an empire in southeastern Europe Has something, perhaps, persuaded Hitler to finish the job in the Balkans before trying to destroy Great Britain?

There remains only a month of favorable weather for completing the campaign against the British. Hitler is committed to the destruction of their empire, his prestige at home and abroad has been made to depend on the success of this climactic undertaking Either there is preparatory work to be done in the Balkans before he can proceed, or for some reason or other the campaign is being delayed There must be some explanation for trying to pacify Rumania Bulgaria and Hungary before trying to obliterate Great Britain

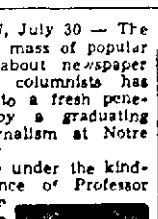

News Behind the News

Questionnaire by Notre Dame Students Assembles Data About News Columnists

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, July 30 — The accumulated mass of popular misinformation about newspaper columning and columnists has been subjected to a fresh penetrating attack by a graduating student in journalism at Notre Dame university

Working there under the kindly able, guidance of Professor John Cooney, the student, Joe Reardon Hart sent out questionaires to columnists asking their purpose, their methods their qualifications the human reader instincts at which they aim for interest

Paul Mallon

Hart s discovery for his graduating thesis was limited largely to the profound truth that when readers say they like or do not like columns or columning they might as well be saying they do not like the universe Columning covers the full stretch of journalistic activity—sports society theatricals finance business, economics politics and just plain personalities And in each division there are as many subdivisions as there are columnists

Some in the political line for instance daily tell the world what to do others what the world is doing Some relate gossip others the economic effects of public events Some emote some rail some just plainly urge political action along a certain line

So to understand even the political subdivision, it is necessary to look behind generalities at the specified purposes of specified columnists

Purposes

Unfortunately Hart received only two responses to his question No 4 What is your chief purpose in writing a column? At least only two were signed He came nevertheless to the conclusion there are four types of columns (1) what he called the 'regular column dealing with news and its interpretations (2) the contributor type which depends on arousing friendly interest (3) the mixture which he likened to a department store carrying all imaginable wares and (4) the essay containing philosophical light essays

If Hart had been able to get the evidence he could have gone further and found still greater degrees of variance in his four categories He could have found for instance there is no real columnar category as the Washington column because the type here stretches as far as the grand divisions each differing and varying according to individual purposes

Titles of Columns

Best secondary evidence as to the purposes of columns lies in their title In general, these at least, represent what the authors of the columns say about what they are trying to do

Kintner and Alsops is accurately The Capital Parade Edwin C Hill The Human Side of the News, Frank Kent The Game of Politics Peglers 'Fair Enough Elsie Robinson Listen World Mrs Roosevelt My Day General Johnsons One Mans Opinion Louis Sobols O O McIntyre column, only better than McIntyres New York Cavalcade Pearson and Allen 'The Merry-Go Round Ray Tucker The Whirligig this one News Behind the News These and some others are all accurately expressive of purposes which are as far apart as the society and sports pages

Of course there are many titles which fail to express their purpose but the intent of these is often apparent from the text. There is for instance Jay Franklins We the People a column which is of course intended to be only We the New Dealers and a particular type of New Dealer at that

Other Titles

Dorothy Thompsons On the Record Is not expressive but everything she puts on her record clarifes her intent to arouse popular sentiments against Hitler Fascism Arthur Krocks intellectual analysis of current political events is beclouded by the title 'In the Nation Ray Clapper is not politically as strict as his title Strictly Speaking

But by and large the connotations of The Human Side of the News Merry Go-Round Fair Enough and Whirligig seem to be accurate descriptions of what has come to be a mass of confusing intentions

Misconceptions

Perhaps some of the confusion results from the disinclination of some newspapers to use the official title of the columns but most of it is surely traceable to the attacks of politicians upon columnists—attacks which have now virtually ceased These attacks were leveled without discrimination on a political basis against essayist gossip writer and the personal type of news reporting which is really just a modernization of the universal newspaper practice in the beginning

Fair non political research such as the Notre Dame graduating student started will straighten out the misconceptions

Physical Preparedness

Sound Bodies and Minds Called First Line Defense Requisite

"ONLY a people physically fit can consider themselves prepared an editorial on Fit to Serve in the August issue of Hygeia The Health Magazine declares pointing out that our nation is about to engage on a vast campaign of preparedness and that we must be able to defend ourselves against any type of aggression which may come in the future

'Physical fitness means more than just the ability to attend to one s daily work ' the editorial continues It means the ability to undergo the rigors of speed in industry the stress of life under military conditions and the mental and physical traumas that come with war

'During World War I great numbers of recruits were found to be incapacitated for service because of easily correctable defects In many instances the teeth were decayed In others the recruit had lost so many teeth that he was hardly able to maintain proper nutrition Many a soldier had flat feet incapable of continued marching In innumerable instances the tonsils were seriously infected Men were found who had gone through years with deficiencies of eyesight easily correctable by proper eyeglasses Especially important were cases of overweight and underweight—both types of conditions correctable by suitable nutrition Many men were eliminated from service because of bad mental states

"NO doubt our nation should it engage in war would wish to conscript the men in this country between the ages of 21 to 40 all young men from 18 to 21 would be considered in prospect for service There are ways in which every one of us may now endeavor to contribute his part toward preparedness First we must determine for our selves whether or not we are physically fit in the sense of being capable of passing an examination for life insurance or for entrance into the army Any competent physician can make such an examination Then every correctable defect must be given suitable treatment Next each one of us should study personal hygiene with a view to adopting a mode of life leading toward physical fitness. That means developing proper weights for our heights and ages, next, the taking of a diet which will maintain that weight provide for the energy we expend in our work and yield a sufficient amount of proteins carbohydrates fats mineral salts and vitamins to take care of body growth and repair There must be a sufficient amount of time allowed for recreation and relaxation particularly for sleep, so that the body may face any kind of stress with a proper attitude and a sufficient amount of resistance The body must be kept clean and free from infection Cleanliness demands water inside and out at frequent intervals Every sign of a beginning infection is a warning for immediate detection and treatment

Part of the great campaign for preparedness involves the employment of additional men particularly in ship yards and in the great industries which manufacture motors munitions and supplies Preparedness demands not only that the recruits for the army be kept physically fit but particularly that the industries which make possible a successful campaign be manned by men who will not fall by the wayside because of physical or mental breakdowns. In well organized industries today medical departments determine the physical state of workers and do everything possible to keep every man fit for work day after day The worker who wishes to aid in the campaign for preparedness will of course cooperate in these efforts and will realize his obligation to the nation to the industry and to himself

"WOMEN too have a definite duty toward preparedness. Even though many women today participate in industry they must realize nevertheless that as men are drawn into military service or into new occupations women must take up much of the work of the world which was not formerly their responsibility This does not mean that the woman worker must become hard or must lose that femininity which makes her truly a woman She must know that her physical and mental condition are a part of the preparedness of the nation and that her health must be maintained in the best possible state

With a people ready to discipline themselves to meet the nation s need we may look forward with confidence to our ability to meet any demands that may be made upon us! '

Today and Tomorrow

Havana Conference Measures Viewed in Light of Battle of Britain

By WALTER LIPPMANN

THE measures agreed upon at Havana derive their whole significance from the struggle between Great Britain and the Nazi domination of Continental Europe But for the possibility that Hitler may conquer Britain break the British blockade achieve something very like naval supremacy in the Atlantic ocean and incorporate British industry, shipping foreign investments and finance into the totalitarian system the problems discussed at Havana would not exist

Walter Lippmann

As long as the British are in control of the Atlantic ocean even though our own navy is in the Pacific nothing serious can happen in the French Dutch or Danish possessions in this hemisphere As long as the United States are confined to Continental Europe no invasion of this hemisphere is conceivable no bases can be seized in Greenland in the Azores in the Cape Verde Islands and on the West Coast of Africa which would serve as stepping stones to the domination of any part of this hemisphere No uprising of a Fifth Column anywhere is to be feared because the forces available in this hemisphere would be sufficient to suppress it

As long as Britain continues to blockade the Continent there is no problem of how competing producers are to do business on equal terms with a totalitarian monopoly But if Britain fails there will disappear the last free market outside of the Americas there will remain only the regimented market in what is left of Europe and access to this market through the machinery of buying paying shipping will be under the control of Berlin A large part of this hemisphere, especially the great South American nations of the Temperate Zone would then become economically dependent upon the European monopoly with which they would have to carry on three quarters of their trade and in a military sense they would at once be vulnerable to internal revolution and external pressure For the Atlantic Ocean particularly their part of it would be commanded by the Axis

If England Loses

It would then be a serious question whether they could maintain the independence which they have enjoyed in the century which followed the British naval victory at Trafalgar and the defeat of Napoleon at Waterloo They would be faced with the imminent prospect of being reduced once more like the Balkan nations of Europe to the status of colonies and protectorates

If as the result of the conquest of Britain the command of the Atlantic ocean is lost to the American nations the consequence will not be the mere substitution of a German empire for the British empire The German empire is avowedly and wherever it is established efficiently carrying out the greatest social revolution of modern times It is the Imperial Socialist revolution in which the whole regime of private property, contract, free labor is being liquidated into a gigantic continental regimented monopolistic Socialism It is with this new revolutionary regime that the nations of this hemisphere will then have to live and do business They will be compelled to choose whether to be incorporated into it which means a revolution within each of them or to organize in order to withstand it which means a radical reorganization of their own internal economies

The battles around Great Britain and around Gibraltar will decide whether the independence of the nations of this hemisphere can be defended in the future as it has been in the past—by sea power If the battles are lost only those regions can now be defended by the United States where it can now land an army and base an air force The battle of Britain will therefore decide whether the United States must maintain permanently a very large army, and whether American industry must be regimented permanently on military lines For if once the British fleet is lost and the shipbuilding facilities of all of Europe are under totalitarian management there is little prospect of our being able to achieve even parity much less mastery, in the Atlantic ocean We shall therefore be driven to maintaining a great army because we shall no longer be sufficiently strong naval power

Economic Life Regimented

This in itself the need to raise and equip a great army will compel us to conscript men and to regiment our economic life

But the battle of Britain will decide also whether this transformation within the United States is to be temporary or permanent If the British prevail and the Hitlerian empire falls we shall be able to return to the essentials though probably never again to all the incidentals of a free economy But if the war is lost in Europe and therefore also in Africa in Asia and in most of South America we shall be isolated in the region from Canada to Panama amidst totalitarian empires which control most of the highways, almost all the shipping most of the industry and all the external markets of the world We shall of course survive But the inexorable price of our own survival will be the radical reorganization and the planned direction of our own system of production and our own methods of doing business

By DAMON RUNYO

OUR OLD MAN knocked around for ver of 10 years or more with a fel in our old home town whose name record as Smith. They were conside They were together four or five nights week This Smith was a successful man

One day a chap named Brown as old man what kind of a fellow Sm Our old man said he seemed to be a low Brown said that struck him as rather an evasive answer He said to our old man, you know Smith quite well and appear to like him, but your recommendation is not enthusiastic Our old man said yes, he liked Smith all right, but that he did not know him.

Brown said what do you mean you do not know him? You are with him much of your leisure time You play cards with him. You go to the ball games with him. You eat with him. How can you say you do not know him? Our old man said he it because it was the truth He said he quainted with Smith the same way he quainted with scores of other men tha or friendly terms with Smith but tha did not know him.

Brown said he wished our old ma explain to him how he could make a daily companion of a fellow for years maintain that he did not know him. man said well in all the years he had quainted with him Smith had been ous and untroubled He said he he Smith under those conditions affable erate and congenial.

OUR OLD MAN said you had to kno when he was unsuccessful and s to say you know him He said you had a man when he was broke and down and friendless and ill and when he w clad and miserable and then you had h m when he was well dressed and health and a job and was going good before you could say you knew him

Our old man said you had to kno when he was unhappy and when his c was overflowing He said you had to l when he was drunk and when he was said you have to know him in dark daylight, in love and out single and He said knowing him thusly you migh knew a man but if you knew him in of the conditions described you did him Our old man said that personally ed if he had ever known any one ma cent—and only one woman

He said several times in his life he he had He said he had had friends k knew backwards and forwards in an and down Friends he thought could n move or entertain an idea he could n pate Friends whose action in any gi tion he could call without consulting th vance But our old man said they h lably fooled him usually under some circumstances in which he had neve them.

HE SAID he did not blame them bu himself for thinking he knew th out having known them under those stances He said you had to know all weathers, hot and cold, before y say you knew him

He said he once had a friend by the Gadgetty that he thought he knew t drop of blood because he had known der many conditions, good and bad he had once taken the witness stand a he knew Gadgetty better than anyon the world but he forgot he had nev him in cold weather

Our old man said one winter night sleeping out in the open with one bl tween them and Gadgetty stole the wh for himself while our old man was asl old man said he almost froze to de said he once had another friend nam stern he thought he knew almost as w did Gadgetty, but that one time w were soldiering in the tropics in dread weather and had to sleep in a mosquit swamp, Pipestem copped all the mos ting and our old man was almost s death by the pests. He said that was decided that you had to know a m weathers before you could say you kne

HE SAID Smith was as compani chap as he had ever associated that he had often wondered what Sm do if his business was going to pot he loved Smith as a brother and Smith reciprocated his feelings, but the basis of knowing a comfortable could not conscientiously say that him until he had known him with blanket for two and only enough mos ting for one

MERCHANT ENDS LIFE AT UPPER SANDUSKY

E. R. Kinley Found Dead Near Store.

Special to The Star

UPPER SANDUSKY, O., July 30—Everet R. Kinley, 50, grocer here for the last 19 years, ended his life with a revolver yesterday about 5:40 p. m. Officials said he had been in failing health since 1937 and apparently despondency over his physical condition led to the suicide. He used a 38 calibre revolver and shot himself near the heart, a few minutes after he had been talking to his delivery boy. The body was found by his brother-in-law, Dwight Smith, in an areaway between the grocery and the Kinley home.

Mr. Kinley was a lifelong resident of Upper Sandusky, son of the late John H. and Carolina Stecher Kinley. Surviving are the widow, Mrs. Edith Smith Kinley, to whom he was married on May 29, 1917, a daughter, Elenora Jane, at home, a sister, Mrs. J. F. Neidhart of 234 South State street, Marion, and three brothers, Harry E. Kinley of Upper Sandusky, J. Avery Kinley of Mansfield, and George F. Kinley of Geneva, Ill.

Mr. Kinley was a member of the Upper Sandusky Methodist church, Warpole lodge of Masons, the American Legion, and the Elks lodge here. During the World war he was assigned at Camp Garrison, S. C.

The funeral will be conducted Wednesday at 3 p. m. at the Bender, Lucas & Son funeral home by Rev. R. B. Coleman. Burial will be made in Oak Hill cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home after 6 tonight.

Police Summons Is Lucky Break For Truck Driver

Lady Luck must have been riding in the cab with an unidentified driver of a watermelon truck which caught fire on North Main street near the city limits yesterday afternoon.

Police were answering a call to determine if the trucker had a permit to sell his wares in the city. When they overtook his truck at Fairview avenue on North Main street they saw that the straw in which a hundred or more melons were packed was ablaze.

They succeeded in attracting his attention and halted the truck directly in front of Stewart's root beer stand just north of the city limits. By the time the vehicle was stopped the loose straw was blazing four to five feet above the truck bed.

Under ordinary circumstances the fire might have been serious. But standing nearby sprinkling the driveway at the concession stand was an attendant, Robert Young of Reed avenue. As the truck came to a halt he leaped onto the rear and directed the water at the flames.

The fire was extinguished almost before the driver of the truck realized what was happening. It had apparently started from a discarded match or cigaret, police said.

Police Captain E. C. Macken and Patrolman Marion Tatham who answered the call, reported they did not question the trucker, who was leaving the city and so far as they could learn had sold no melons here.

Proposes District Office

The speaker said it would be possible for such a district organ[illegible] to employ a district busi[illegible] agent and that the district [illegible] would serve as a clearing house for ideas and information important to the trade.

Mr. Melton spoke in the place of H. W. Brown of Washington, D. C., international president of the association, who originally was scheduled to speak. Mr. Brown was unable to attend be[illegible] of conferences on national defense work.

Preceding Mr. Melton's talk, a class of 50 candidates from the various communities represented was initiated into the association. Approximately 300 persons attended.

Ray Beverley, president of Lodge No. 1281 of Marion, presided and he, Mr. Melton and A. G. Saunder, I.A.M. organizer, were in charge of the initiation.

Short talks were given by Mr. Saunder, John J. Zuck, president of the Marion Central Labor union, Mrs. Ray Beverley, president of the women's auxiliary of Lodge No. 1281, and Fire Chief T. J. McFarland who was a guest.

BERLIN OFFERS ADVICE

Sees Future Need for London Lamp Poles.

By The Associated Press

BERLIN, July 30 — British authorities are considering a plan to convert London's metal light poles into munitions, the German radio reported today, and offered this bit of advice to the English:

"You'd better save a few of those poles in case you want to hang your war agitators later."

TRUCK HITS BICYCLIST

Davids St. Man in Hospital After Accident.

John A. Hiller, 66, of 505 Davids street, suffered abrasions about the head, back and arms when he was hit by a truck while riding a bicycle on Davids street near Columbia street yesterday about 4:30 p. m., according to a report to police.

Mr. Hiller, riding south, apparently attempted to turn left to Columbia street when he was struck by a truck operated by Harold Stevens, 20, of 516 Park street, officers said. The cyclist was removed to City hospital in the Gunder ambulance.

The attending physician reported today that his condition was "much improved" and that he may be removed to his home late today or Wednesday.

Long - Expected English Invasion May Be at Hand

By DEWITT MacKENZIE

Speculation continues as to whether the long-promised Nazi invasion of Britain is at hand, and Berlin offers no discouragement of an idea which serves to keep English nerves ragged.

The concrete evidence on which we must judge the trend of affairs, however, is that there has been an increasingly heavy and persistent Nazi bombing of England and British shipping. To my mind this represents a double-edge strategy which can cut in these directions:

(1). It is calculated to establish a counter-blockade which will starve Britain into submission if collapse doesn't come from some other cause.

(2). It is calculated to pound the country into a state of helplessness which will insure surrender and make invasion possible.

Hitler Still Eyes London

There is no indication that Herr Hitler has abandoned his pet scheme of goose-stepping his troops through a conquered London. There are signs, though, that he is proceeding cautiously with an operation which might easily result in disaster for him.

It seems to me, as I have indicated before, that Hitler won't challenge fortune to the extent of trying to land troops until he thinks England has been bombed to a point of submission or close to it. In other words, the invasion won't be intended so much as an instrument of defeat as a mopping-up process.

It's up to Hitler to put his finger on the right moment for invasion, and his view of the damage being caused in England by bombing might impel him to move unexpectedly. But it is to be noted, that if he doesn't try invasion, he still has the other lines of attack going.

Some Startling Claims

In connection with the counter-blockade activities the Nazis today make the startling claim that they destroyed 257,000 tons of British shipping in a single week ending July 27. This would far exceed the heaviest sinkings during the unrestricted German submarine campaign in the World war.

The British don't admit any such sinkings, and claim that the Germans have been greatly exaggerating. However, the admitted losses represents a threat not to be tossed aside lightly. England won't forget that she came close to hunger in the World war.

HAVANA

Nabuco of Brazil and Miguel A. Campa of Cuba touched up farewell speeches for delivery at today's final public plenary session.

They chose as their theme mutual congratulation for bringing the Americas into these declarations

1. That they would not tolerate the menace of a foreign foot on American soil nor of a change of flags over hemisphere colonies:

2. That they would collaborate against the dreaded "fifth column" even to the extent of challenging the "packing" of foreign embassies and legations and consulates with subversive elements.

3. That they would do their best to divert United States credits toward a solution of the surplus exports problems and attempt to develop hitherto neglected Latin American products of a non-competitive nature.

N. J. BANK BANDITS FLEE WITH $108,000

Three Men Armed with Shotguns Hold Up Messengers.

By The Associated Press

ASBURY PARK, N. J., July 30 —Three men armed with shotguns held up employes of the Asbury Park National Bank & Trust Co. near the post office today and escaped with a bag which police said they believed contained $108,000.

The bandits drove away in a green sedan bearing Pennsylvania license plates.

Bank officials said they were unable to give an immediate estimate of the loot, all cash. The money was consigned to the Federal Reserve bank of New York.

Vice President James Forsythe said the armed messengers, Clarence Barton and Joseph Sturm, were accosted by the trio as they stepped from their car in front of the post office. The robbers wore dark glasses.

Forsythe said that during the holdup a fourth man remained in the bandit car with the engine running.

Showers Bring Relief in Some Sections

By The Associated Press

Thundershowers brought a measure of relief to some parts of the parched nation today but for most of the country the day was just another lap in the heat marathon.

As the mercury again climbed toward the nineties, the number of deaths from the season's most prolonged heat wave increased to 765. Heat deaths numbered 382, drownings 383.

Illinois reported 74 deaths attributed to heat prostration, most of them in Chicago. Ohio's total was 36, Michigan's 35, Pennsylvania's 34, and Wisconsin's 29.

Weather observers reported a "rather slight" cool air mass moving eastward from North Dakota and Minnesota but it was not expected to afford much relief beyond northern Illinois and Indiana.

Showers brought temporary respite in the lake region and at scattered points in the Atlantic and Gulf states, the Appalachian district and the Upper Ohio valley. Heavy rains in the foothills west of Fountain, Colo., caused extensive damage to crops, washed out railroad tracks and delayed automobile traffic between Colorado Springs and Peublo.

Late afternoon showers yesterday provided overnight relief for Washington, D. C., where nine deaths were reported in 24 hours. Rain promised to further alleviate the heat in New York City, where the torrid weather moderated somewhat last night.

cost the British 257,000 tons of shipping in the week ended July 27.

To Widen Blockade

Britain was expected in London to widen her own blockade against supplies possibly reaching Germany with intensified contraband control over all ships bound for Europe and certain North African ports.

It was believed Minister of Economic Warfare Hugh Dalton would give the house of commons a statement on this subject today before the legislators begin a secret debate on foreign affairs.

Authoritative sources reported last night at Bucharest that Rumania, willing to effect a quick compromise with her neighbors on their territorial demands, has been given just seven weeks to negotiate a settlement.

Adolf Hitler was said to have told Rumania that Germany would solve the territorial problem for her unless agreement was reached by Sept. 15.

DUKE FACES DANGER ON AMERICAN LINER

By The Associated Press

LONDON, July 30—The Duke of Windsor may run the risk of capture by Italy or Germany if he travels to the United States on the American export liner Excalibur, government sources said today.

An authority on international law said the carrying of individuals who are members of the armed forces of an enemy places a vessel in the position of a neutral ship liable for seizure for contraband. Until last month the duke served with the British army in France.

Since the start of the war the British have frequently removed axis power nationals from ships operated by the Japanese and Italians and while the case of the duke doesn't perfectly parallel those cases, government sources said, it seems evident that so prominent a figure would travel at an unusual risk.

NEW DEAN IS NAMED FOR O. S. U. LAW COLLEGE

Arthur T. Martin Heads School at 38.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., July 30 — Arthur T. Martin, a member of the Ohio State university faculty for 10 years, today is new dean of the school's college of law.

He was appointed by President Howard L. Bevis to succeed Herschel W. Arant, who resigned a year ago to become a federal circuit judge. The appointment was approved by the board of trustees last week-end at Gibraltar island on Lake Erie.

Martin, 38 years old, was chairman of a committee which administered the law college since Arant's resignation. In 1939 he headed a committee which drafted a new curriculum for the college, seeking to integrate class work with professional experience.

He received his bachelor of arts degree at Oberlin college, juris doctor degree at Ohio State and master of laws degree at Columbia university. His "Cases and Other Materials on Conveyances" was published last year.

Martin was born in Hadjin, Turkey, the son of missionary parents. He is married to Alice Elizabeth Rasor, daughter of Prof. Samuel E. Rasor of the Ohio State mathematics department.

FARM BUREAU

to be until we distribute abundance instead of dividing scarcity. One of the main reasons we are facing war in the world today is that war diverts our attention from domestic troubles, and justifies increased government expenditures and debt."

Mr. Green said that individuals and groups must face new responsibilities in view of the preparedness program.

Farmers should decide, if inflation and high prices come, that if they are in debt they should take advantage of the situation and reduce their debt and otherwise improve their position, he said. He warned them against any speculative enterprises, telling them instead to stick to fundamental farm programs.

In regard to the war situation, he commented that no one yet has pointed out the enemy which we are preparing to defend ourselves against.

Warns of Heavy Expenses

If the government's present economic policies continue, he said, it will mean that the country is marching toward economic collapse. Preparedness expenses will contribute toward this undesirable situation, he warned.

The country is facing in reality a fight between dollars and barter, Mr. Green commented, calling attention to the proposed American subsidies for South America as a means of keeping this continent free of the European barter economic setup.

Another speaker this morning was Carl C. Bair, supervisor of the Farm Bureau field service, who discussed "Membership and Organization." He reported the 1940 membership in Ohio will be close to 20,000, still less than 10 per cent of total number of farms in the state, and urged careful thought on the question of whether larger membership is desirable and what the 1941 goal should be.

Luncheon at Noon

After a noon luncheon, the program was to continue with several other speakers.

W. E. Stough of seven miles east of Galion in Richland county, a state director, presided at the meeting. Ford Ruckel of Crawford county, W. B. Davis of Richland county and Roland L. Leeper of Marion county were representing the cooperative organizations today.

The Marion meeting was one of 22 four-county meetings of farmers planned by the Farm Bureau for this summer.

ITALIANS CLAIM SUCCESS

ROME, July 30 — The Italian high command reported today that several ships were seriously damaged in an Italian air attack on a convoy escorted by warships in the eastern Mediterranean yesterday.

One of the British planes which took off from an aircraft carrier was shot down, the high command announced, and one Italian plane is missing.

Capture of an entire British supply column, with foodstuffs, arms and ammunition, was reported from Kurmuk, Anglo-Egyptian Sudan.

BLAST AT GIBRALTAR

GIBRALTAR, July 30—British military headquarters acknowledged today that three soldiers were killed yesterday in an explosion "in the vicinity of the naval wireless station at the north front" of this Mediterranean stronghold.

It said the cause was "as yet unknown."

(Reports reaching La Linea, Spain, just across the border from the Birtish fortress, said a carelessly handled hand grenade set off stored anti-aircraft shells and the blast killed four men.)

board of elections in their refusal to accept the opinion of the secretary of state, George M. Neffner, as chief election officer of the state, ordering them to place the name of Ivan R. Gongwer, candidate for senator in the 13-31st district on the November ballot is an affront and rebuke to the authority of the secretary of state whose ability and efficiency in handling the affairs of the election machinery of the state of Ohio under both Democratic and Republican administrations has always been held to the highest esteem. If these same members can take advantage of an act of God to attempt to disfranchise the voters in this district to keep them from voting for a man of their party choice, we can be thankful that we have recourse through court to right such an utterly and ridiculous decision.

"An attempt will be made to have an immediate hearing before the Ohio supreme court to mandamus the board of elections of Seneca county to place the name of Gongwer on the November ballot. If further action is necessary, restraining orders will be sought to keep the ballots from being printed in the 13-31st senatorial district until the rights of the Democratic party are respected."

CANDY STORE BOMBED AT PORT CLINTON, O.

By The Associated Press

PORT CLINTON, O., July 30—A dynamite bomb damaged the Allen Clemens Candy Co. building and the Timblin drug store in the business district here early today, police reported. No one was injured.

Authorities said three persons saw a man toss something into the candy store basement and speed away in a large sedan driven by a companion shortly before the explosion. A partition between the two buildings was blown out, windows smashed and merchandise damaged.

Clemens could not be reached immediately but police said they were investigating a possibility the bombing might have some connection with his operation of concessions at nearby Gem and Terrance beaches on Lake Erie.

SAWYER IMPRESSED BUT ONLY SLIGHTLY

Doesn't Feel Urge to Help Willkie Fund.

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, July 30—Charles Sawyer, Democratic national committeeman for Ohio, was impressed, but not sufficiently to contribute to Wendell L. Willkie's campaign fund.

"I have your letter * * suggesting, if I agreed that the future welfare of this country depends on Mr. Willkie's election, that I might send my personal check * * *," Sawyer wrote to U. S. Senator Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio).

He added:

"I certainly appreciate this gracious invitation and breadth of view which permits you to solicit me. However, I can't accommodate you, * * * I don't think Mr. Willkie (the Republican candidate for president) needs money.

"He doesn't drive an automobile and he undoubtedly has saved up a lot," Sawyer explained.

He went on to say that he had just returned from Chicago where "we nominated the Democratic candidate who will send Mr. Willkie back to Commonwealth and Southern (utility of which Mr. Willkie is a former president.)"

HENRY FORD

tion of the machinery of destruction."

"The United States won't get into this war," he went on, "because our people know from experience that only a limited few with financial investments involved ever profit from war.

Looks to Youth

The extent of the prosperity he sees ahead, Ford said, "depends of course, upon our youth and what we teach them. We must teach them to work and to be self-reliant. The sooner we all learn that 'life is earnest and real,' and that there is no short cut to economic or social security, the sooner will he achieve the purpose for which we were put on this earth."

"You know, of course," he added, "that the earth doesn't need us, but that we need the earth."

Ford is teaching self-reliance and community responsibility to hundreds of youths in his boys' farm camps and his trade schools in what he likes to regard as his own youth movement.

"Show me a boy who wants to fix the family washing machine when it breaks down, and I'll show you a successful man in the making," he said. "The almost certain failure of the future is the boy who asks, impatiently, 'why am I supposed to know this?'"

Ford, who pioneered in mass production and the mechanization of industry and agriculture, believes that "once the two are definitely tied together, both are safe." His chief aim in developing the so-called "machine age" has been to make normal labor easier, and he is positive in his belief that the machine does not replace the individual wage earner.

"The machine age, so-called," he said, "has made the normal life span longer."

COMMODITY CREDIT CORP. CALLS LOANS ON CORN

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 30 — The Commodity Credit Corp. announced today it was calling grower loans on all corn stored in warehouses.

Approximately 13,000,000 bushels is stored in warehouses in Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, Minnesota, South Daota, Nebraska, Missouri and Kansas.

Growers wishing to redeem their corn by paying loans must do so by Aug. 5. Grain not redeemed will be taken over by the government and made available for export under its subsidy program.

WILLKIE ANSWERS CLUB'S INVITATION

Secretary Says He'll Come to Marion If Possible.

A reply to an invitation sent by the Marion Lions club to Wendell L. Willkie, Republican presidential nominee, to speak at a meeting of the club next month has been received but no definite answer given.

The reply, written by Robert L. Johnson, one of Mr. Willkie's secretaries, stated that Mr. Willkie has not yet completed the itinerary for his speaking tour of the nation but that he will include Marion "if it is at all possible to do so."

The reply was received by Dr. G. W. Pfleiderer, program chairman of the Lions club.

INDUSTRIAL PROFITS UP DESPITE TAX INCREASES

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, July 30—Profits of the first 300 companies to report for the second quarter of 1940 were 37 per cent greater than a year ago.

The gain was made in the face of increased taxes for defense purposes, and despite the fact that most leading corporations charged added taxes for the entire first half against second quarter earnings.

The legislation was not passed until the second quarter, but made the increased rates retroactive to cover the entire calendar year. New excess profits legislation now planned in Washington may cut further into 1940 earnings.

Earnings of the first 3000 companies rose to $319,829,000 compared with $232,086,000 in the April-May-June quarter of 1939.

GUARDSMEN PROMISED PAY WHILE TRAINING

By The Associated Press

HAMILTON, O., July 30 — A campaign to build up the Hamilton national guard by guaranteeing "no pay losses" while members are in training camps for three weeks this summer has brought the cooperation of more than 40 merchants, Clarke Marion, chairman of a Citizens' Military Affairs committee, said.

Officials of the Ford Motor Co., promised that salaries would be paid employes in the firm's plant here who participate in the intensified training, Marion announced.

The program is meeting the enthusiastic approval of Capt. Arthur Fillis of the local guard, who said:

"It was largely a forgotten unit before the committee started to work."

SWEENEY LOSES SUIT

By The Associated Press

AKRON, O., July 30—Common Pleas Judge E. D. Fritch ruled in a memorandum opinion today that a cause of action did not exist in the $250,000 libel suit of Rep. Martin L. Sweeney, Democrat of Ohio, against the Akron Beacon-Journal. The decision upheld a defense demurrer. The Beacon-Journal is one of about 70 newspapers sued by the congressman because of statements in a syndicated Washington column which he asserted accused him of racial prejudice.

ROOSEVELT RETURNS FROM DEFENSE TOUR

Says Capital Will Be Safer in Another Year.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 30—President Roosevelt cruised up the Potomac river toward the capital today, convinced by a study of defense operations around Norfolk, Va., that Washington could "feel a whole lot safer" a year from now.

At the moment, the Chief Executive informed newspaper men, he feels that the success of an attempt to invade the capital, as the British did in the war of 1812, would "depend entirely on when it came and who it was" making the attack.

Mr. Roosevelt put in seven hours under a scorching sun yesterday looking over defense installations at the mouth of Chesapeake bay, the water route to Washington. He said similar inspections of additional navy yards, army forts and air bases might be expected.

The statement emphasized a belief of many politicians that such visits might afford opportunity during the election campaign for expression of his views on defense and aligned problems.

The President rode through a half a dozen Virginia communities yesterday with a hand flung up in almost continuous greeting to crowds lining the streets. Persons who had accompanied him on his 1936 travels were reminded of inspections of drouth and flood areas which the White House called "nonpolitical."

WARTIME JITTERS HIKE U. S. AUTO FATALITIES

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, July 30—"Wartime jitters"—the war's psychological effects on American motorists—were held partly responsible today for a sharp increase in the nation's traffic deaths.

Reporting an eight per cent gain in traffic deaths for the first half of 1940 compared with the like period last year, the National Safety Council attributed the rise to greater travel and "wartime jitters."

There were 14,740 persons killed in motor accidents during the first six months of 1940, or 1,040 more than in the like 1939 period.

The June death toll of 2,820 was 15 per cent greater than that of June, 1939 and the largest for any month since March, 1937.

Casual Slaughters

By VIRGINIA HANSON

YESTERDAY Julia indignantly insists that Jeff would never harm Sandra The morning after the party Kay finds Sandra murdered Jeff is put under arrest.

CHAPTER THIRTY-ONE

Evil Spirit

JULIA parked in front of her house got out and took my overnight case from the open rumble seat

'It wasn t Jeff," she said stubbornly, and led the way up the walk

Mimi, looking pale and frightened met us at the door

Thank Heaven you're here, Kay ' she said fervently 'I wouldn t have had an easy moment with you alone over there Something is terribly wrong on this post I don t know what it is but I feel it—something like an evil spirit roaming about a house —something that doesn't belong here An evil invasion—

Julia was staring at her

'Do you by any chance think these murders are supernatural?'

Of course not, Julia Don't be silly What I mean is that we're all quiet, peace-loving people, we army people—

"Contradiction in terms old dear But go on I know what you mean '

'I haven t been part of it very long myself, I know Mimi went on with dign ty But it was one of the first things I noticed when I married your father It s like I imagine the life must have been in these religious communities The army lives to itself, too, has its own community of interest and little reason for contact with the outside world We have our own inside quarrels but aside from that we live together in comparative peace and harmony, This is like something that has crept in You understand what I mean, don t you Kay?'

Yes I understand"

I understand something else too that Sandra s death was particularly frightening because it had struck almost within the charmed circle And because say what she would suspicion logically pointed to the few members of the garrison who had known Sandra well What had the chaplain said? Murder is an intimate thing

I remembered with a little chill the way opinion had turned against me the outsider when murder had truck at Fort Havens They banded together, these army people They stood back to back when there was trouble and it was too bad for the stranger within their gates

After they had taken me to the guest room—the room Sandra had occupied until her marriage—and left me to make myself at home I reviewed the strangers realizing that except for myself there were only two—Gerald and Felicia Could either of them be the creeping evil that Mimi had so chillingly suggested?

Gerald when he had found himself in sole charge of a fainted female had carried me into Felicia s rooms and brought me to with the good old-fashioned remedy of plenty of cold water externally appl ed I had recovered enough to tell him the trouble when an orderly looking scared put in an appearance Gerald sent h m for Felicia who was some where in the k tchen reg ons n the opposite wing of the building

They had looked after me Felicia and Gerald, Gerald himself attending to the unpleasant business of making sure that Sandra was past help then sending for the doctor and the commanding officer I have said that it was late when I rose The officers who lived in the building had gone to duty There were only the three of us, the three outsiders left with murder

Felicia when she heard the news had looked as ghastly as I felt Genuine horror is difficult to fake Looking back on it now, I felt sure she had been unutterably shocked But Gerald?

Gerald was no longer the posturing idiot His eyes were cold and wary his manner business like The clowing was a mask that he took off and without it he seemed hard and ruthless I was suddenly afraid of him

Like a Wax Model'

He was in my room what seemed a long time before he went to telephone but he came back to Felicia and me to wait for the doctor and C lonel Pennant

Odd that you heard nothing in the night he said in the clipped dispassionate accent that belonged to the strange new manner His eyes revealing nothing regarded me

But I did I told him surprised There was some one moving about in my sitting room I thought it was Sandra

At what time?

I don t know I had been asleep I don t know how long And I went to sleep again I didn t think to look at my watch

He stood up abruptly There were voices in the corridor

Wait here—I'll be back

After he had joined those men in the hall Felicia opened the door a crack and applied herself frankly to peeping and eavesdropping

Jeff s here she whispered once He looks like a wax model of himself They e g t the post photographer taking pictures And later They re taking her away Oh, the poor kid! I heard Doc Jones say she s been dead at least eight hours '

Captain Jones came presently and took my pulse said I was all right but to lie still for a while Colonel Pennant came in looking pretty grim announced that Mimi would call me up and with a glance at Felicia that he would question me later at his quarters

I did not see Jeff and I was glad

After they had all departed Gerald came back and asked me if I felt well enough to go to my room I got up shakily and followed him I think Felicia would have liked to come too but something in Gerald s manner must have discouraged her for she remained where she was

There was an armed enlisted man in front of my door

Miss Cornish has to get some of her things Gerald told him Colonel Pennant said it would be all right

I looked at him suspiciously Colonel Pennant had said no such thing But the enlisted man stepped aside and let us go in

Now said Gerald I want you to look the place over carefully and tell me if there s anything missing Anything at all—no matter how small!"

I must have spent at least half an hour examining the drawer of my worktable looking through a stack of manuscripts and correspondence but I couldn t see that there was anything gone or even out of place and I told him so

Racing Dreams

How about Sandra? Did she have anything in here?

No She never brought her things here — except a stenographer s notebook once to take some dictation from me

Where is it?

'I suppose she took it away with her

I don t know just when I began to resent his questions or to want to get out of that room where I was closed up with him There was the memory of that dreadful form in front of the door There was fear in the room and Gerald was a stranger

I must dress and pack a few things I said trying not to let him see that his company was beginning to frighten me 'If you ll wait outside do?

I ll wait here in the sitting room he said and I had to be content with that

Gerald? I lay on the bed in the Pennants guest room and remembered the shrinking fear I had felt shut in with him in that room where murder had been done And I wondered if he was the evil invader —the creeping intruder who if Mimi was right had brought murder to Fort Michigan

But what of Mimi herself? Mimi who took long solitary drives at night Mimi whose car had returned to the barge an hour before Ivan s body was found there Mimi whose past to me at least was shrouded in mystery And what if you came to that, of Julia who had said only last night of Sandra I could kill her——

My head began to ache I closed my eyes and slept uneasily harried by confused racing dreams until lunch

Colonel Pennant telephoned that he was too busy to come home I heard Julia taking the message as I came downstairs Then she asked him if she could see Jeff He must have said yes for as soon as we rose from a scarcely tasted lunch she proposed that I go with her to the hospital to the prison ward

Mimi had been summoned to the kitchen by the cook We were alone for a moment

'Dan said he d leave word for us to be admitted ' Julia went on 'but he insisted someone had to go with me I d rather it was you than Mimi And Dan said to tell you he ll be home at four and he d like to question you then

I didn t want to see Jeff I hate the sight of death and of its grief-sickened survivors But I understood that Julia could talk to him more freely in my presence than in Mimi s so I consented

But Jeff was not grief sickened Felicia had said he was like a wax figure of himself and he did look white and stiff But in his deep set rather unexpressive eyes I could see only bewildered horror and resentment—no anguish

NEW YORK, July 30—Industrials today led the stock market on another rallying foray

While early gains running to 2 or more points were chipped down by profit taking, recoveries were well distributed near the fourth hour.

Brokers credited the better showing of the list partly to the belief of many that a 'sold out" condition existed Propping sentiment also, it was added was more hopefulness in Wall Street for British resistance to the Nazi onslaught and cheerful business signs

Bonds were selectively higher and commodities fairly steady

Stocks well in front most of the time—some eventually slipped—were U S Steel, Chrysler, Montgomery Ward Douglas Aircraft United Aircraft, Boeing Anaconda, Westinghouse, Du Pont, Western Union and N Y Central

Steels were propped not only by the brightening outlook for this industry when defense spending really gets going But by expectations of some in boardrooms that U S Steel directors, later in the day would vote another dividend on the common stock

ARGENTINE ACTION BOOSTS WHEAT PRICE

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, July 30 — Argentina's sudden ban on wheat exports brought a quick advance to wheat prices today before the trade began to argue whether the action was surprising or to be expected

The first quick reaction was surprise and prices moved more than a cent higher, but later reflection by traders brought mixed reactions Prices held most of the gains despite assertions that the action merely signified that Argentina was unwilling to further reduce stocks of old wheat with weather conditions unfavorable to the current growing crop Corn was strengthened by a continuation of heat and drouth over much of the belt

Late rallies carried wheat prices to the best levels of the day with the close 1½ cents above yesterday's finish Sept 76⅛-¼, Dec 76⅞ 77, and corn closed 1¼-½ up Sept 62½, Dec 59⅛-¼, oats ⅞-1⅜ advanced and lard 3-10 cents higher

Boston Wool

By The Associated Press

BOSTON, July 30—A few mill buyers and topmakers were making inquiries today for wools on the Boston market, but sales were generally of small volume.

Bids were inclined to be a little lower than last week, but most dealers were not ready to shade prices except on small lots Country-graded three eighth and one quarter blood bright fleeces were being offered at 38-40 cents in the grease delivered east, but mills apparently are not interested in purchasing at their level.
